Formal dedication of the magnitake place Sunday morning at 10:30, when the Rev. Dr. Ralph E. Diffendorfer, Corresponding

Episcopal church of New York will bring the message.

Three services of a magnificent character will be held tomorrow, the regular morning and evening services being supplemented by a Community Service in the afternoon at 3 o'clock. Visiting pastors will occupy the pulpit at all the services Sunday.

In addition to Dr. Diffendorfer in the morning, the congregation will have an opportunity of hearing Dr.
Charles T. Greer, pastor of the First M. E. church of Warren, Pa., in the afternoon; and Dr. Fred C. Reynolds, pastor of the Grace M. E. church of Baltimore, Md., in the evening.

The church is expected to be well crowded for all the services Sunday, and many visiting worshippers from other congregations are expected to attend in addition to the members of the Epworth congregation.

To Dedicate Organ
On Monday evening, the new church organ will be formally dedicated with a recital by Earl Mitchell,

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Pa Newc wonders if there are any more Japanese beetles around in the New Castle district. U. S. Department of Agriculture men found a few here last year and were of the opinion that they had laid some eggs and that more would hatch out this spring. Motorists who travel across the state, say that the quarantine area has been moved further west this year along the principal highways leading from the eastern part of the state.

Canning season is here. None of the surplus of vegetables, fruit, etc., being developed in New Castle and Lawrence county this season should be allowed to go to waste. It's time to can. Can everything not needed for food at the present time. Appeal is made by the Red Cross for donation of jars for canning purposes for those unable to purchase the jars. This appeal should bring a real response.

Rain storms of the present time seem to be very local in their character. While quite a heavy rainstorm was experienced here last night about 4:30 o'clock, conditions near New Wilmington indicated that it had not rained at all in that section.

Candidates for city and county offices are blossoming quite rapidly now. Never has there been a time when it was essential that the best and most able men be elected to office. It is no time to elect anybody to office just because "he needs the job." New Castle and Lawrence county need the most capable men procurable to head affairs of the city and county during the next few years.

Last night was a cool one—but how it pleased the golfers.

enough last night or early enough this morning, we might inform you

EPWORTH METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

The new Epworth M. E. church at East Washington street and Butler avenue is interesting for many things.

First is its location. The lot which it occupies is one of the most community sites of any church building in the city, located as it is in the triangle formed by the intersection of two of the main thoroughfares leading out of the city.

The old Green and Johnson limestone railway operated through the site for many years. It came down through the center of the lot and crossed Washington street at the intersection.

The building itself was planned to suit the location and gives a pleasing architectural effect from every direction. The planning of the interior was also arranged so that it adapts itself to the difference in elevation of the two streets.

Of Briar Hill Sandstone

The church is built of Briar Hill sandstone from the quarries at

PARIS, July 11.—Unless Ger-

no aid from France in raising a $360,000,000 loan to stave off bankruptcy and possible revolution.

The value of the "find" was said to run high, and two consignments of samples were enroute here for assay at the government department of mines. Leading mining engineers and geologists were reported making their way to the scene of the discovery.

Much interest is attached to the McLeod river gold discoveries as mining men assert that enough gold sampling has already been done to open up a big placer gold mining camp in Canada. One of Canada's important gold mining companies has already secured a government concession to exploit some 300,000-000 feet in the sector where the new discoveries have been made.

Frank Palko's murder yesterday was the second within 48 hours and authorities were convinced there was definite gang plot to wipe out their witnesses. Johnny Mundo, independent alcohol peddler, was slain on Thursday.

Palko and Mundo were expected to establish evidence of Al Capone's hold on Calumet city, an oasis on the Indiana line.

Assistant district attorney Edward
A. Fisher found evidence that Palko had purchased "alky" from Mundo and that the murders were related.

"I am certain these murders are due to the Capone gang," he said.
"Not only had Palko and Mundo broken with the gang, but they were in a position to give important information concerning the Capone clique with the Calumet city administration."

Authorities even ventured to pick the next target in the attack.

Mundo was called off his porch by men in a car and his body was discovered at Dyer, Ind., riddled with bullets and his face disfigured by acid to prevent identity. Palko was shot in the rear of his saloon.

No fatalities have been reported.
The roof of the provincial power plant was torn away and the main section of the plant wrecked when the stone walls fell in upon the machinery, plunging the town into darkness.

The tornado was immediately followed by an electrical storm and cloud burst which flooded streets and store basements.

tend the funeral of the late Rev. R.

France's Terms

France's terms for participating in the huge international loan sought by Germany were understood to be as follows:

1. Abandonment of the Anschutz, or Austro-German customs union.

2. Suspension of the German airmail service.

3. Assurance that Germany will not support any move destined to bring about a reduction in French armaments considered necessary to French security.

Rather than grant such terms, it was reported in Paris today that Chancellor Bruening would prefer to resign, a step that would certainly bring that German crisis to a head, entailing far-reaching consequences from which even France could not escape.

ONE OF VICTIMS IS SHOT TO DEATH

(International News Service)
SHARON, Pa., July 11.—With one man dead and another seriously wounded, eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania police today were investigating ramifications of an alleged gangland murder running deep between Cleveland and Pittsburgh.

Dave Amdur, 30, of Cleveland was found dead in a field just over the Ohio line shortly before midnight. Three bullets had ploughed into his head. Joe Blank, 24, of Cleveland was taken to Buhl hospital where physicians said his wounds might prove fatal.

Blank was quoted as telling two stories. One was to the effect that he and Amdur were innocently hitchhiking from Cleveland to Buffalo and were offered a lift by occupants of an eastbound automobile, who attempted to kill both men.

The second version was that Amdur and Blank were shot down when they attempted, too late, to flee "the spot" where they had been lured.

Accident Near Portersville
Sends Adams Street Girls
To Jameson Hospital

Miss Ruth and Olive Mack, of 939 Adams street, are being treated in the Jameson Memorial Hospital today for injuries received in an automobile accident Friday night.

The two young ladies were riding in the automobile driven by their father, Harry Mack. The automobile got out of control two miles west of Portersville, swerved into a ditch and hit a cement abutment. Ruth and Olive received severe cuts and bruises and were taken to the Jameson Hospital at 11:55 p. m., where it was found that their injuries were not of a serious nature.

Other occupants of the car, Thelma Mack, her father and several friends, were not injured.

Rudy Declares Rumor He's Not Legally Married Is Entirely An Untruth

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 11.—Rudy Val-temptuous laugh followed by a tut and a couple of pooh poohs when asked if there could be any truth in a rumor intimating he isn't le-

Just to prove that the rumor is without foundation, the megaphone

this: Fay flew to his arms—literally.
He took an airplane.

(International News Service) LIMA, Ohio, July 11.—James May, 22, arrested for the murders of Earl Truesdale, 20, of Elida, O., and Thelma Woods, 17, whose bodies were found after a long search at the bottom of an abandoned well shaft, today was declared innocent of any connections with the crime by Sheriff Jess Barber.

Barber indicated that he would ask for a dismissal of the charges lodged against the youth, said to be a former sweetheart of the girl victim. Police arrested a second suspect in the gruesome killing which has stirred this city. They declined to reveal his name.

Sergeant Thompson Gets Four Recruits

Through Sergeant J. W. Thompson, sub-station commander of the United States Army Recruiting service in this district, four young men were enlisted and accepted at the Pittsburgh headquarters of the service on Friday.

They have gone to Fort Slocum, N. Y., for their preliminary training, after which they will ship on an Army transport at New York and go down the East Coast and through the Panama Canal and up the West Coast to San Francisco, Cal. During the trip they will see many interesting sights.

After a five days stay they will ship to the Hawaiian Islands. The young men accepted and the service in which they enlisted are: Robert E. Davis, 836 Lathrop street, Elmer A. Mayne, 1724 East Washington street and Harry G. Marshall, 115 East Long avenue, all of this city, who will serve in the Coast Artillery Corps, and John Kruckar, of Sharpen, who will serve in the Ordnance department.

there was a heavy fog. Automobiles on highways leading into the city had to proceed with caution in places where heavy banks clouded vision.

Seems as if the attraction of playgrounds as the summer rolls by decreases none whatever. If anything, they attract more.

At the post office across the street, letter carriers find horseshoe games a bit helpful in their work. Inside the office, when routing their loads before deliveries, they toss mail hither and yon and into pigeon holes with polished skill. Maybe the horse-shoe sport improves their aim.

Pa New has seen more stray looking dogs in the downtown section within the past week than for a long time. Some carried tags, others didn't. To keep their dogs confined to their own district should be the aim of every owner. Time for police to get busy.

A snappy roadster with top down looked rather wilted after the heavy rainfall of Friday evening. The roadster had been parked in Clichan Way, near the Methodist church, and incidentally, right under a water spout. Water came bursting down the spout, right on the seat of the auto!

One of the sights along Washington street, Friday afternoon was a man and his wife walking along, the wife leading a fuzzy Pekinese and the husband leading a saber toothed bull dog. Which is as it should be.

As Pa New drove out the Ellwood City road Friday afternoon, there at Greenwood M. E. church, in all the downpour of rain was Rev. Sam Maitland and a crew of helpers erecting a large tent, in which evangelistic services will be held during the coming week.

Yesterday's shower came at an opportune time. Gardens were beginning to get a little bit dry, and in need of a good shower.

There was a fairly heavy fog early this morning, due to the low temperature, following last evening's rain. The highest temperature yesterday was only 72 degrees, while the minimum last night dropped to 53. It actually felt chilly late in the evening.

With the gardens of the unemployed beginning to mature, there is a demand for jars in which to can the excess. This is a worthwhile project as it enables those who are not working to lay aside a little supply of food for the winter.

Men of the Epworth church are proud of the job of grading which they did on the grounds. A great amount of filling was necessary and the men labored hard and untiringly. The grounds reflect a pleasing appearance and those who took part are to be congratulated.

As one travels over the road in the summer one is apt to see all kinds of tourists and cars. In driving toward Youngstown last night Pa New saw a small car from Arkansas and in the front seat was "ma and pa" and two small children; and crowded into the rumble were two boys, a large police dog and plenty of baggage. The ride in the back seat looked as if it would not be the most comfortable in the world for so long a distance.

Pa New does not know what the letter M stands for in the Pennsylvania highway system of license tag numbers, but there appears to be far more automobiles in New Castle with license tags containing that magical letter than any other. It can be found in a wide variety of combinations.

The porte cochere entrance to the structure is at the ground floor level on the Butler avenue side and is so arranged that machines driving in, may drive through to the street again, or may drive around to the rear of the church and from there out to East Washington street, or may go back to the large area owned by the church in the rear where hundreds of machines may be parked. Perhaps no other church in the city is so well arranged in this respect and probably no other church has such an abundance of parking space.

Principal Entrance The principal entrance to the main floor is from East Washington street, and at this point, the grade from the street to the entrance and the people of Epworth church are to be congratulated on having one of the most complete and best equipped churches in the city.

The pastor of the church is Dr. Samuel L. Maxwell. The building committee which had charge of the details of construction, is composed of Hon. George T. Weingartner, Robert A. Stitzinger, Chester P. Reynolds, Mrs. Lou Marshall, and J. H. Nelson. The architects who designed the building and have supervised its construction are the W. E. Eckles company of this city. The general contract was held by the J. C. Gilfillan company, the plumbing by Frank P. Andrews and son; heating by the W. J. Bradford company, and the electric, by J. H. Gilfillan, all of New Castle.

Memorial Windows

All of the windows in the main body of the church are memorial windows, dedicated to the memory of former Epworth church members or their families, as follows:

In the nave, five of the side windows are given in memory of some individual:

The John H. Marshall window given by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Marshall, Sr.

The Margaret A. Smith window given by Mrs. E. R. Sheaffer.

The Charles Francis Flannery Jr. window given by Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Flannery.

The W. James Marshall window given by Mrs. W. James Marshall.

The Elvira Frazer window given by Mrs. Frank Dean.

The other five windows are each a memorial to more than one person:

The Long window, in memory of Sarah P. Long, and Anna P. Long, given by Thomas A. Long.

The Dunlap window, in memory of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Dunlap.

The Nelson window, in memory of Elta Barton Nelson, Ruth Arnett Cook and Annie Cook Nelson.

The Reynolds window, in memory of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Reynolds and family.

The Stratton window, in memory of Reverend J. L. Stratton and Mrs. J. L. Stratton.

The Chancel window is in memory of George Grant Stitzinger and is given by Mrs. George Grant Stitzinger.

months of sluggish downward tendencies.

But as France hedged and traded in the matter of accepting the president's proposal, and the seriousness of Germany's condition began to be more apparent, reaction set in, with the result that virtually all of the gains made during the baby dull market have now been lost—and more. Wheat, for example, sold on the grain exchanges yesterday at lower prices than before Mr. Hoover made his move.

It has been very disappointing to the administration.

Blames Speculators.

Under the circumstances, the administration is inclined to blame the speculators.

Rarely has the White House issued such an indictment against market traders as the president pronounced just before leaving for his camp.

"It has come to my knowledge," he said, "that certain persons are selling short in our commodity markets, particularly in wheat. These transactions have been continuous over the past month. I do not refer to the ordinary hedging transactions which are a sound part of our marketing system. I do not refer to the number of speculators. I am not expressing any views upon economics of short-selling in normal times.

But in these times this activity has a public interest. It has but one purpose, and that is to depress prices. It tends to destroy returning public confidence. The intent is to take a profit from the losses of other people. Even though the effect may be temporary it deprives many farmers of their rightful income.

If these gentlemen have that sense of patriotism, which outruns immediate profit, and a desire to see the country recover, they will close up these transactions and desist from their manipulations. The confidence imposed upon me by law as a public official does not permit me to expose their names to the public. If I could, I would gladly do so."

C. H. Boak, charged with passing worthless checks, was fined $10 and costs and given two months to the county jail.

Harry Hodges, in a case in which he had been found not guilty of possessing liquor, was sentenced to pay half the costs. The jury had placed the other half on the prosecutor, but they were stricken off by the court.

Benjamin Perrott, charged with driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated, and with manufacturing liquor back in 1923, was sentenced to pay $100 and costs and three months to jail on the first charge, and $300 fine and six months to jail on the second.

After Perrott's arrest in 1923 he gave bail for court. The bail was found to be worthless and he left the city, going to Youngstown. However, he was indicted by the grand jury. He stated that he has a wife and six children in Youngstown, where he has been living of late. He was picked up on the drunken driving charge while visiting in New Castle.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McWilliams and sons Billy and Bobby of Gibbons, N. J. who have been visiting with friends in this city the past week are now visiting in Cleveland, Ohio, but will return to New Castle before returning to their home.

Cabinet May Quit

BERLIN, July 11.—Both the German cabinet will resign rather than cripple Germany's present national defense in order to obtain an international loan, government spokesmen intimated to International News Service today.

Since Dr. Luther's departure for London and Paris on his urgent mission to raise funds to bolster the Reich's crumbling financial structure, Chancellor Bruening's cabinet has been in almost continuous session.

The chancellor has been having long-distance telephone talks with President Von Hindenburg for hours at a time since the crisis began to show signs of coming to a head.

The report was current in London today that Secretary Henderson had requested the German ambassador to the Court of St. James to urge his government to abandon the Anschluss or Austro-German customs' union and suspend her naval program in compliance with the wishes of France.

SHOWER IN FORM OF COUNTRY FAIR, UNIQUE

A novel social event of Friday evening occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hammond on Highland avenue when the latter entertained at a miscellaneous shower in honor of her sister, Mrs. Ed Gustafson, a bride of recent date.

The occasion was in the form of a "country Fair" and it was indeed a decided success. The guests first played bingo and each participating was given a clever prize at the conclusion of the game. Following this and all during the evening, they feasted on bags of peanuts, lollipops, cracker-jack and all the things necessary to complete such an event.

After the humorous part of the program had been completed, a game of bridge was contested in, thus occupying the balance of the evening. Trophies for honors were given to Mrs. Lee Davids and Mrs. Chester Minick in this feature.

Preceding the serving of a dainty repast by the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Anne Harris, and Mrs. E. W. Thomas, the guest of honor was presented with a collection of many beautiful and serviceable gifts to use in her home.

MRS. S. R. HUEY
HOSTESS AT PICNIC

The spacious grounds at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Huey on the Wilmington road was the scene of a pleasant gathering Friday when the members and husbands of the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the First Methodist church assembled for the annual picnic.

The trees on the lawn formed a perfect background for the tables, which were attractively decorated with prettily arranged bouquets of garden flowers in varied hues. Delicately viands were brought forth from the baskets prepared by the women and a most bounteous repast was served at 6 o'clock.

It was decided at this time, that the same group would assemble on Thursday of the coming week at the home of Mary Patterson, Northview avenue, and would organize into a club. The name will be chosen on that date, and the affair will be in the form of a "kid party."

Later, a trolley car was served by the hostess' mother Mrs. J. B. Nielsen assisted by Mrs. Walter Patterson. A color scheme of orange and black was used in the menu and table appointments.

EPWORTH CHURCH DEDICATION

TOMORROW is a day that has been eagerly looked forward to by members of the Epworth Methodist Episcopal congregation of this city for a long time. It is the date of the dedication of their magnificent new church edifice at the corner of East Washington street and Butler avenue.

It will be a day of reconsecration, and a day of gratification and celebration as well.

Certain it is that the members of this congregation, their leaders, and pastor, Rev. Samuel L. Maxwell, can feel a real pride of achievement when they take part in this service tomorrow. The new church is one that bespeaks a progressive and substantial congregation, one that is a leader in the city, and one that is only satisfied with a place of worship that is fully in keeping with modern ideas and fullest possibilities of service.

Building of the new church was started shortly before the world depression became apparent in the nation, and showed its effect in the community as well, but the congregation has succeeded in pushing their building enterprise to a glorious conclusion, despite the many serious handicaps encountered.

Every member of the congregation who has had any share in the long and difficult task of aiding in the building of this magnificent new church structure is deserving of congratulations. The new Epworth church is one that will not only stand as a thing of joy to the congregation, but is a fine addition as well to New Castle's imposing array of beautiful churches.

Whatever sacrifice it has meant to the members of the congregation and may mean in the future, it is more than worth while.

Congratulations Epworthians!

SPEED IS RELATIVE

There was a time in the history of motoring when speeding, in the public's opinion, was synonymous with reckless driving. It was as natural when one saw the remains of a traffic accident, to remark "Someone driving too fast" as it is to speak about the weather whether it is good or indifferent.

As roads improved, automobiles became safer at high speeds, drivers became more expert and everybody became "speed broke" through frequent motoring, legislators and the public awoke to the fact that accidents are not the result so much of speeding as of speeding in the wrong place. It is the consensus of opinion now that slow driving in the wrong place causes more accidents than fast driving in the right place.

Everywhere legislatures are raising the legal maximum rate of speed, and even where the higher limits are operative the police do not enforce them except at times and places when fast driving amounts to reckless driving.

A mile a minute is no longer considered a tremendous speed, even for motor cars, but under certain conditions a speed of twenty miles an hour may be dangerous. By common consent it is criminal carelessness for one to pass another car on a blind curve or at the top of a hill. Fast driving at blind road intersections is another breach of the rules of caution.

FIXING UP LIBERTY

Liberty, like justice, is always pictured as a woman, though the cynical might say that neither is distinctly feminine. So the lofty goddess in New York Harbor, having been left to herself for nearly half a century, is due for a beauty treatment, largely by means of a new lighting system. We are told that at present she has a double chin, hollow cheeks and a nose that casts unbecoming shadows. This is clearly no way for the lady who welcomes travellers from over sea to look. She does not glorify the American girl, as Mr. Ziegfeld would say.

Now all the grime that has overspread her features is to be removed, her crown is to have the semblance of glittering jewels, and as far out as Sandy Hook she is to attract and gladden the eye. It is a pity that she has been neglected so long. But France will not think us ungrateful if at last she regains her youth with something of the glitter of her native Paris.

TENS OF MILLIONS IN GIFTS TO THE PUBLIC

It speaks well for public spirit to know that gifts and bequests to philanthropy in five of the chief cities of the United States for the first six months of this year total nearly $200,000,000. The survey shows that $124,356,286 came in bequests and the remainder in direct contributions. More than $26,000,000 was for organized relief work. In the totals New York City comes first with over $150,000,000. Chicago is second with $16,000,000, and then in order we have Philadelphia with nearly $10,000,000 and Washington and Baltimore with over $3,000,000 each, according to the Philadelphia Inquirer. These figures include only large amounts which have been noted in the public press, and do not take into account the numerous smaller sums, which are considerable and quite important.

These figures—Incomplete though they be—give testimony to the fact that scores of wealthy men have been exceedingly liberal with their money and have a keen desire to aid in the welfare of all the people. Many years ago, when Andrew Carnegie declared that it was a disgrace to die rich, he expressed the feeling of many other men filled with a desire to divide their riches with their less-fortunate fellow men. It has become a characteristic trait with many eminent Americans. Mr. Carnegie did not follow his own injunction to the extent of literally stripping himself of this world's goods; but when he died he left a vast portion of his fortune in trust to be used in helping worthy objects. And that method has been followed by numerous philanthropists, who perform good deeds during their lifetime and then plan their estate in a way to continue to help the people.

For the most part these large gifts have been dedicated to health and education. The theory is correct. Given health and proper educational equipment, the majority of men are able to take care of themselves and those who are dependent on them. It is a gratifying sign of the times to note how many corporations now provide group insurance for the benefit of faithful employees. The disposition is also to help loyal workers so that they will not be left penniless in their old age. Such methods deserve the highest commendation; they furnish an incentive to service and help to create the era of good feeling so much to be desired in this work-a-day world.

Remember Moving Day?
A Few Items Recalled
There's Always a Moving Day

By MARSHALL MASLIN
Do you remember Moving Day? The day the family packed up all its things and moved to another and a better neighborhood? Remember that day?

If you lived in one house all your childhood days, you will not know what it was like on that half sad and half exciting day. But others know—and remember.

They remember the talk in the house beforehand. The plans, the expeditions, the weighing of this advantage against that discomfort, the decision to move. . . . The rent had been raised, or the landlord wouldn't make any "improvements". So he lost a tenant and another landlord got a new one.

And then the excitement. Empty boxes from the town department store. Trunks dragged down from the attic. Piles of old newspapers to wrap the dishes in. Pictures taken down from the walls. The straw matting ripped up and the dust that was raised and the sprinkling of the floor and the sweeping. . . . Small boys shanghaied to work. . . . The dog hanging around, excited, and the cat departing for a quiet tree. . . . The baby crying.

Grave arguments with mother when she decides that something must be thrown away. "It might come in handy." "Aw, mother, please let me keep it." . . . Tears, protestations, sullen resignation. Long lost treasures that suddenly turned up. A box of cartridges. A precious top. A bag of marbles. That stamp collection. A favorite book. And mooning over those treasures and neglect of work. . . . The bonfire in the back yard, and hot, red faces. . . . And the moving man coming late. He promised to be there at 9 and didn't get there until 10. Something delayed him. A husky, friendly fellow, and a slim, little helper, who didn't seem quite strong enough for the job. . . . Kid friends hanging around, kind of quiet. . . . That inevitable saucy brat of a little girl, out in front, getting in her last licks. . . . The rumbling of the truck as you rolled out of the neighborhood, swearing you'd be back to play some day.

The new neighborhood and the "new" house, and wandering all over it, looking at everything. . . . New kids straggling by, and you looking them over carefully, nobody saying a word, just sizing things up. . . . Packing things into the house, and a terrible jumble. . . . Grieving over things that were broken. . . . Running back for things that were forgotten. Putting up the shades and the long white curtains. . . . Wondering if the "light" man and the "water" man would turn things on if the plumber would make the connections in time. . . . Getting back the littlest child from a helpful neighbor. . . . Somebody always saying, "Three moves are as good as a fire." . . . Night coming on and still a lot of work to be done. . . . Making up the beds and getting a meal on the wood stove, first meal in the new house. . . . Weary bones, and some of the family fretful, but a deeper feeling that something HAD been accomplished.

There'd been a Moving Day for everybody. Old habits had been broken, new dreams had moved in, too. Things had change a little for everybody. Life had moved on, too. . . . Nobody ever forgets Moving Day, everybody hopes to have a Big Moving Day some time and live in the Perfect Home we've always dreamed of having.

It was discouraging, to say the least, to find the number of positions in this city held by married women whose husbands are—and with no relief in sight, does the public not think all the married women with working husbands should have the decency to give their jobs to the unemployed men and single women, instead of living on cream, and other people, especially children, starving for the want of bread. Why cannot some one of authority make a law during a crisis like this?

J. E. A.

I am one of many girls in this city who are dependant solely on themselves for a living. Recently the firm, for whom I worked, closed and was—and is—necessary for me to find another position.

It was discouraging, to say the least, to find the number of positions in this city held by married women whose husbands are—and with no relief in sight, does the public not think all the married women with working husbands should have the decency to give their jobs to the unemployed men and single women, instead of living on cream, and other people, especially children, starving for the want of bread. Why cannot some one of authority make a law during a crisis like this?

Some employers claim married women are more reliable than single girls, that they don't "run around" so much at night and are, therefore, more able to work—being more awake. There may be and probably are a certain class of single girls who believe that in order to really live one must be "on a wild party" every night of one's life, but—while married life is the only thing that makes some people settle down—and sometimes even that fails—there is such a thing as "common sense" and it really works wonders.

You probably have heard many times and on different occasions the Biblical quotation that "No man can serve two masters, etc." It is my opinion that either married girls who still hold positions in offices or stores, are shirking their work of their employers or are not doing justice to their home and husbands. Of course, when two in the family are getting salaries regularly maid service is no expense—a couple of days a week—and some of these working married girls ease their conscience by giving some girl three or four dollars a week for a couple of days each week and then tell their friends they don't feel as though they are taking work away from anyone.

Even professional men's wives are guilty of this charge. I am thinking of one in particular to whom I used to go for service and when I found that his wife was working in one of the offices in the city, needless to say I found someone else to whom to go for those services. Slot Machine Racketeer Shot

Irving Shapiro, Slot Machine Racketeer Shot To Death In His Home

BLAME MURDER ON GANG FEUD

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 11.—Irving Shapiro, slot machine racketeer of Brooklyn, was shot to death today in the vestibule of his home. He was ambushed by five men who lay in wait in a parked automobile.

Underworld circles attribute the murder to a gang feud. The shooting followed an attempt to raid Trinity hospital and kill Tony Mongno, Shapiro's racketeer rival, who lay wounded there.

Mongno, a leader of a Brooklyn racket, was lured to a street corner a week ago. While he lay in his expensive baby blue sedan, awaiting his supposed appointment, another car dashed up and a dozen shots were fired at him. He was wounded three times and taken to the hospital.

Subsequently Mongno's mob beat off a gang which tried to storm the hospital to "finish" their leader. The attack was laid to Shapiro, who was in the alcohol as well as the slot machine racket.

Police believe that a double killing had been planned for this morning, with the Shapiro brothers—Irving and Meyer—as the intended victims. The mob, however, only "got" Irving, but they say in underworld circles that Meyer Shapiro's "number is up."

Sandpile Cave In Causes Death Of Two Children

Two Fostoria, Ohio, Children Are Buried Under Sand While Playing

(International News Service)

FOSTORIA, O., July 11.—Victims of a sandpile cave-in while they were playing, 10-year old Warren James Sherman and Malcolm Kelley, 11, sons of prominent Fostoria business men, were dead here today.

The bodies of the children were found late yesterday under two and one-half feet of sand near the Electric Auto-Lite foundry here. The boys had been buried alive.

Lung motors were used in an effort to resuscitate the children, but they failed.

Search for the boys started when they failed to return home for lunch yesterday noon. Discovery of the Sherman's pony tethered near the sandpile led to a search of the 10-foot cave-in for the boys.

Twenty-One Months' Old Girl Breaks Collar Bone In Fall On Church Steps

The many friends of Barbara Hennon, twenty-one months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hennon of County Line street, will regret to learn that she is suffering with a broken collar bone sustained in a fall on July 3 on the front steps of the Second United Presbyterian church.

At first the little girl's injuries were not thought serious, by a local physician, and a period of four days elapsed when her parents took her to a bone specialist. Immediately, she was taken to the Grove City hospital where she was given the necessary attention.

She is getting along as well as can be expected.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., July 11.—Basil J. Soisson, 39, prominent member of the Fayette county bar, died here today from an impairment of the heart resulting from pneumonia suffered early this spring.

Soisson was a graduate of Notre Dame and friend of the late Knute Rockne, South Bend football coach, whom he persuaded to make his only visit to Fayette county to speak at a banquet.

He also maintained offices at Uniontown.

He leaves his widow.

SUNDAY MARKS DEDICATION OF EPWORTH CHURCH

organist of the Shadyside Presbyterian church of Pittsburgh, assisted by Wilbur Evans, baritone of Philadelphia.

Sunday's services will be a fitting climax to the preliminary services which have been held so far, having been preceded by the gathering Thursday evening of the members of the congregation, former pastors, and former members. Last evening, the Fellowship Supper was held, when the new dining room of the church was first used.

The services of the week of dedication will be concluded on Wednesday evening with the Young People's service, Tuesday evening, being observed as New Castle night, when the play, "He Came Seeing," will be presented.

It is interesting to note that in the 57 years since the organization of the Epworth church, it has had sixteen pastors, while Grace church, organized 31 years ago, and merged with Epworth two years ago, has had two different pastors.

Pastors Listed

All but five of the Epworth pastors are now deceased, while eight of the Grace pastors still survive.

The pastors in their order are as follows:

Epworth church—J. A. Ward, deceased; J. W. Blaisdell, deceased; O. L. Meade, deceased; Cearing J. Peters, deceased; H. E. Johnson, deceased.

Subsequently Mongno's mob beat off a gang which tried to storm the hospital to "finish" their leader. The attack was laid to Shapiro, who was in the alcohol as well as the slot machine racket.

Distressing Habit May Be Overcome

Alarm Clock Will Aid Sufferer, Dr. Myers Advises

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education,
Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

From one mother comes the following:

"Would be very grateful to you if you could help me. They tell us that if a child by any chance is still wetting the bed at three years, one should use an alarm clock. This is fine and works, but just as soon as the child is not awakened she goes back to her old habit. Would there be any way to make her awaken and call? I have a nephew of 18 who isn't going to college because of this; it is so embarrassing to him. Is there anything I can do?"

Answer: Don't expect the child of three to awaken and call you. She may awaken after urinating if she often has had before. Go on and use the clock. Extend the intervals gradually; otherwise you may not get results. Provide the child's bed with a rubber sheet so she will not have any worries if she has an accident.

As for older children, they can be taught to set the alarm clock and care for themselves. That 18-year-old nephew could easily manage his own problem in like manner. Curiously enough, we parents are not likely to be concerned about the child who must urinate once or several times during the night so long as he urinates in the toilet. But the only difference between wetting the bed and urinating in the toilet at night is that in the first instance the water is deposited in the bed and in the other in the urinal. In either instance it is, of course, well to have the child examined by a physician.

Another mother writes:

"Please keep on urging discipline. I don't think you can do it too often. In our town there is a six-year-old boy who steals and lies continually. He broke a window here in a fit of temper, tried to hit our two-year-old child with a crow-bar because she would not come to his place to play. He has hurt other children severely enough to require medical attention.

He stole a bowie knife and tried to stab other children. His mother, a former primary teacher, has no other children and spends all her time with him. She is "allowing him to express himself" and he is "so high-spirited." No other children will play with him. I think almost any kind of discipline would make him happier."

Answer: Maybe you might be able to put into the hands of that mother my pamphlet, "Punishments and Rewards."

The mother continues: "Here is a little story Emily told me the other morning.

"Once there was three rabbits, a papa rabbit and a mamma rabbit and a baby rabbit. The papa rabbit went over to Smith's and started to eat the pie out of the garden. Mrs. Smith—no, it wasn't Mrs. Smith, it was Mrs. Muggins (Smith's are neighbors); Muggins I guess she made up the name and stuck him in the pie. Then the mamma rabbit said to the baby rabbit, 'You must go over to Muggins' or Muggins will stick you in the pie.' And the baby rabbit said, 'I won't momma,' but when the mama went to church he did, and he started to eat some pie, too. And Mrs. Muggins came out and stuck him in the pie, too, and when Mrs. Muggins went to church they both jumped out and ran home, but the papa rabbit tore his coat and when Mrs. Muggins came home from church she hanged it on a tree and the birds used it for a nest and the baby birds slept in the pockets."

He stole a bowie knife and tried to stab other children. His mother, a former primary teacher, has no other children and spends all her time with him. She is "allowing him to express himself" and he is "so high-spirited." No other children will play with him. I think almost any kind of discipline would make him happier."

Answer: Maybe you might be able to put into the hands of that mother my pamphlet, "Punishments and Rewards."

The mother continues: "Here is a little story Emily told me the other morning.

"Once there was three rabbits, a papa rabbit and a mamma rabbit and a baby rabbit. The papa rabbit went over to Smith's and started to eat the pie out of the garden. Mrs. Smith—no, it wasn't Mrs. Smith, it was Mrs. Muggins (Smith's are neighbors); Muggins I guess she made up the name and stuck him in the pie. Then the mamma rabbit said to the baby rabbit, 'You must go over to Muggins' or Muggins will stick you in the pie.'

Seven Hundred Attend Dinner At Epworth M. E.

New Dining Room Of Church Is Christened With Fellowship Dinner

DR. WILLIAMSON DELIVERS ADDRESS

With over seven hundred people in attendance, the new dining room of the Epworth M. E. church, at the corner of East Washington street and Butler avenue, was formally opened last evening.

The big crowd was given an opportunity to inspect the modern appointments of the dining room and kitchen, and at the same time, mingle together in the spirit of Christian fellowship.

Dr. C. G. Farr, district superintendent of the New Castle district of the Erie conference, delivered the invocation and during the course of the dinner, an informal program was carried out, with the pastor, Dr. Samuel L. Maxwell presiding as toastmaster.

Responses were made by Norman E. Clarke, superintendent of the Sunday school; Mrs. Lillian Porter, vice president of the Epworth guild; W. G. Eckles, supervising architect; and J. Clyde Gilligan, general contractor.

Miss Prudence Sankey interrupted the program to express the appreciation of the Epworth guild to the pastor, who in turn commended the guild on the fine service they have rendered the church and the capable assistance they have given the pastor.

Dr. Maxwell then thanked the members of the building committee, individually, for the great work they have accomplished in connection with the building of the wonderful new church home that is now being formally dedicated.

The male quartet, composed of Messrs. Francis, Reese, Harris, and Kisthart, rendered several selections during the evening and music was also furnished during the meal by the Sunday school orchestra.

Dr. C. J. Williamson, pastor of the Highland U. P. church delivered the main address of the evening, and in his inimitable manner, gave a splendid talk, complimenting the members of the congregation on their enterprise.

The dinner was served in a remarkable manner, considering the fact that it was the first time that the women of the church have had an opportunity to get acquainted with the facilities of the dining room and kitchen, and the great crowd which was served.

Two sittings were necessary to accommodate all who were in attendance, but the entire program was carried out with smoothness and dispatch.

The program was concluded by singing, "Should Old Acquaintance Be Forgot?"

A Modern-Futuristic View

A strange, bizarre combination of the modern and the futuristic is contained in this graphic picture taken from the towering roof of the Irving Trust Building at No. 1 Wall Street, New York. An unusual perspective of surrounding buildings, particularly the Bankers Trust Building (in the foreground), is gained from the photographer's ingenuity in hanging over the uppermost ledge of the Irving Trust.

Probing Pennsy Freight Wreck

Trainmaster Starts Investigation To Learn Derailment Cause

Seeking to determine the cause for Thursday morning's derailment of the locomotive and 12 cars of a Conway-to-Erie freight train, at Shenango, near Greenville, Trainmaster F. J. Perry of the Pennsylvania railroad this afternoon launched his official investigation at divisional offices here.

Normal service to the badly torn right-of-way at the Penny-Erie crossing, the place where the freight left the rails, was completely restored by 11:30 o'clock last night. Wreck crews at the scene returned here.

Officials would place no estimate on the actual damage caused, but announced the locomotive damages would exceed $1,000. All of the cars shuddered and came near to telescoping each other in the wreck.

The trainmaster said he would summon here all who had connection with the derailment or the train in any way.

The wreck, which attracted hundreds of curious throughout the day, was termed at headquarters as the most serious on the E. & A. division since the Clarksboro bridge wreck of six years ago, when a span collapsed as a freight passed over it.

Request Plans For Lowering Of Curb

Hope To Alleviate Damage To Auto Hub Caps In Long Avenue

Councilman Stanley Triser has requested the municipal engineering department to prepare plans and specifications whereby the curb of Long avenue, west of Mill street, will be cut down to the level of the old curbing.

The present curb is high and when automobiles park against it the hub caps are sometimes damaged. The board of trade of the South Side has called the city officials attention to this and steps will be taken to remedy the condition.

Pershing Club To Name Central Committee Monday

Governing Board And Officers
Will Select Important
Body At Meeting

One of the most important meetings, which has been held so far by the governing board of the Pershing Club, will take place on Monday evening at 8:30 D. S. T., in the Legion Home Association building on North Jefferson street, when the central committee will be named.

The central committee is composed of the officers of the club, together with twelve members of the governing board, and will be vested with the power to act on the more important questions which will confront the organization later on.

It is highly important therefore, that all members of the governing board attend this meeting, in order to select competent representatives. Not more than two committeemen from any one town or township can be named on the central committee, thus insuring an even distribution of representation throughout the country.

Invitations have been mailed to all members of the governing board, calling their attention to the meeting tonight.

Summer Camp Of National Guard Is Opened Today

First Units Establish Camp Today With 3000 Guardsmen Arriving

INFANTRY FIRST TO START ROUTINE

(International News Service) CAMP KEMP, MT. GRETN, Pa.

July 11—Annual summer encampment of the Pennsylvania National Guard opened here today with establishment of headquarters of the 28th Division on Division Hill and the arrival of nearly 3,000 guardsmen from all sections of the state.

The "citizen soldiers" detrained at a railroad siding near the cantonment in high spirits and eager to start their two weeks of duty in the field. Many of the companies from far points in Western Pennsylvania began the trip last night in order to reach the camp for the opening.

Price Views Troops

Maj. Gen. William G. Price, Jr., of Chester, commander of the state national guard, motored to the encampment from his home and viewed the arriving troops from his headquarters.

Plenty of work was on the first day's schedule for the troops. There were mountains of luggage to be loaded on army trucks and taken to the camp. The whole area of tents had to be straightened and entrenched; supplies and equipment were to be drawn and by noon the doughboys were willing and eager to drop everything and run when the bugles sounded mess call.

Largest body of troops which arrived at the training camp today was the 55th Infantry Brigade under command of Brig. Gen. Edward Martin, state treasurer and Republican State chairman, of Washington, Pa. The brigade comprises the 109th Infantry from the northeastern and northcentral parts of the state, under Col. Robert M. Vail of Scranton, and the 110th Infantry, from western Pennsylvania.

Special music by the Men's chorus will feature Sunday morning's service.

New Castle Boys Settle Down At Training Camp

Military Discipline Begins For Those In C. M. T. C. Camp At Fort Washington

ASSIGN YOUTHS TO DIFFERENT SPORTS

(By ROBERT A. BISHOP, Co. 12th Inf.)

(Special To The News) FORT WASHINGTON, Md., July 11.—After having arrived in camp last Thursday and been assigned to companies and drawing their uniforms and equipment, the New Castle boys located here are beginning to swing into the routine of camp life and will soon be hardened veterans.

The first day proved a rather trying one, especially to those who had signed up for their first training period, but after finding many in the same predicament to associate with, things were a little easier.

One of the first things done after being assigned to companies, was to find out what sports the boys liked best and then to assign them to those sports.

Monday was the first day that athletics were participated in, and found the New Castle boys well distributed in various branches.

Athletics Assigned

On the list favoring baseball are Norman Aiken, Robert Weinschenk, William Patterson, Hugh Miller, and a few others. Boxing is favored by William Lewis, Robert Bishop, and Marshall Crammer. Swimming includes William Patterson and Harry Maddocks; basketball, Emil Rogers, Mac Leslie and Dick Evers; volley ball, LeRoy Myers, Frank Marcelli, and Mac Leslie; and the track list includes Emil Rogers, Robert Bishop, and Frank Marcelli. The boys are required to sign up for two different branches of sport.

Fort Washington is composed mostly of boys from New Castle, Pittsburgh, and Uniontown, the ages ranging between eighteen and twenty-two. Although the camp runs for but 31 days, the point and demerit system was not put into effect until Monday. Points are awarded for neatness of tents, bunks and personal appearance, while demerits are given for various misdemeanors, and things not done on time or properly.

Each year, there is a winning platoon commanded for marching. Last year, the winning platoon contained a number of boys from our city and the New Castle boys are trying to stage a good show in their marching this year in order to do likewise.

Rifles Issued

On Monday, rifles were issued, which meant learning manual of arms, which is not exactly easy, but if strict attention is paid, there is no trouble getting it. Because of the limited amount of time, every available minute is put to good use.

Regarding cleanliness, each day, there are ten boys from each company assigned to kitchen police duty, usually alphabetically taken, and a very rigid inspection takes place at 10 o'clock, assuring a very sanitary condition of the dining halls. Each day, except Sunday, immediately after dinner, mail is called and all boys are very cheery if they receive a letter, or slightly downhearted if they do not.

The boys come down to camp in different ways, some by train, some by bus, while a few hitch-hiked and others arrived in their private cars, including a couple of uncovered wagons; and they usually go home the same way.

Boys attending the Citizens Military Training Camps, regardless of which camp meet with only those of the finest character, and best of health, as others are not admitted.

Sunday morning is devoted to the school and church, and capable chaplains are to be found.

The boys, now that they have gotten settled down, will spend a very profitable month, which will be made good use of, as the camp's paramount object is citizenship.

(International News Service) GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 11.—The death-battalion battlefield of Gettysburg became a chessboard upon which defending troops were moved again today as Maj. Gen. Edward Martin, state treasurer and commander of the 55th infantry brigade of the Pennsylvania National Guard, and his staff made a personal reconnaissance of the field to work out strategic war plans.

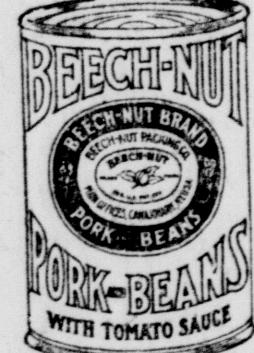

Maj. Gen. Martin and his staff arrived here last night and made a preliminary tour of the battlefield, meeting later to study varied phases as an imaginary battle. The military problem considered was repulse of an invading army moving north through Maryland by a defending force along the Mason-Dixon line—the problem which faced Union commanders in the Civil war when Lee invaded Pennsylvania to meet Meade at the battlefield here.

After the reconnaissance and a staff conference today, the staff will motor to Mt. Gretna, where the annual encampment of the National Guard opened this morning.

HIGHLIGHTS OF HISTORY

By J. Carroll Mansfield

The Mormons—6. Utah Becomes American Territory

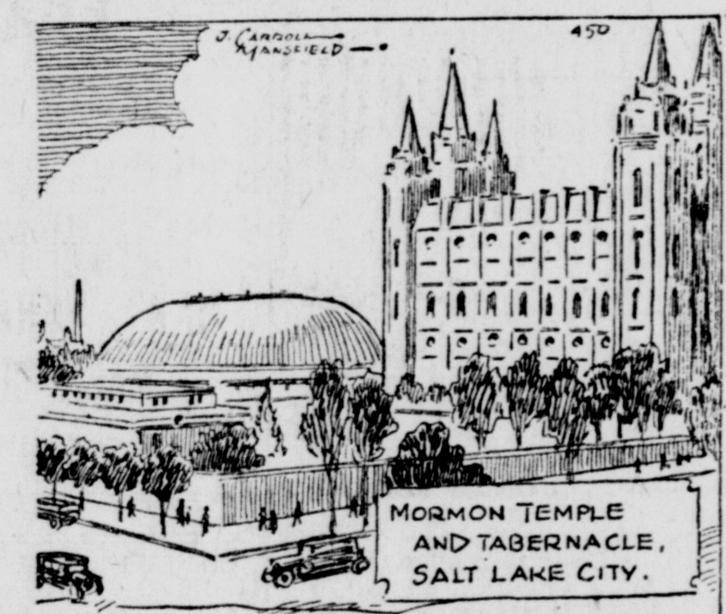

AT THE CLOSE OF THE MEXICAN WAR IN 1848 UTAH BECAME PART OF THE UNITED STATES, BUT BRIGHAM YOUNG AND THE MORMON CHURCH LAWS REMAINED THE SUPREME POWER IN THE TERRITORY.

AFTER THE DISCOVERY OF GOLD IN CALIFORNIA THE MORMONS WERE ANGERED BY THE STREAM OF FORTUNE HUNTERS THAT POURED THROUGH UTAH ON THE WAY TO THE GOLD FIELDS. THE MORMONS ATTACKED THE WAGON TRAINS AND AT MOUNTAIN MEADOWS WIPE OUT A LARGE PARTY OF EMIGRANTS.

IN 1857 A FEDERAL ARMY UNDER GEN. ALBERT SIDNEY JOHNSON WAS SENT TO UTAH TO MAKE THE MORMONS KEEP THE PEACE AND CONFORM TO THE LAWS OF THE UNITED STATES. ALL THIS EXPEDITION ACCOMPLISHED WAS TO BRING ABOUT AN UNSATISFACTORY TRUCE (1858).

IN THE 'EIGHTIES CONGRESS PASSED LAWS FORBIDDING POLYGAMY IN THE TERRITORIES, CONFISCATED THE PROPERTY OF THE MORMON CHURCH AND IMPRISONED MORE THAN A THOUSAND MORMONS FOR VIOLATING THE LAW. WHEN THE MORMON CHURCH ABOLISHED POLYGAMY (1890) THE PRESIDENT RESTORED THE CONFISCATED PROPERTY AND PARDONED THE MORMON PRISONERS.

Athletics Beat New York Yanks

George Earnshaw Stops Yanks In Overtime Battle, 8-6

EARNSHAW CALLED A HUMAN TRACTOR

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, July 11.—What a man this George Earnshaw is!

The right-hand ace of the Philadelphia Athletics, pitching his third game in six days, put the finishing touch on a remarkable week's performance yesterday when his courageous relief pitching enabled the world's champions to check the rush of the New York Yankees in one of the most dramatic and hard-fought games of the season.

After the A's scored two runs in the 14th inning to win the marathon contest by an 8 to 6 count, the fans were calling Earnshaw the modern Joe McGinnity as they filed out of the stadium into the shadows.

"Big Moose" long has been known as a horse for work, and he can now qualify as a human tractor after his Herculean labors this week. On Sunday Connie Mack sent the husky Swarthmore alumnus against Washington in the opening game of that all-important series. Earnshaw pitched a fine game, allowing only six hits, but lost, 4 to 2, when his mates committed four errors.

Far from being disheartened, George came right back against the Senators on Tuesday, with only one day's rest, and beat them handily, 7 to 3, yielding eight hits. That stopped the Nats in their tracks.

One might think that Earnshaw deserved a long rest after that performance, but there was no such thought in the mind of Mr. Connie McGillicuddy.

Mack, doing more wig-wagging than has been seen since the battle of Jutland, again summoned Earnshaw from the bull-pen yesterday after Walberg had been yanked for a hitless pinch hitter in the seventh inning.

East Liverpool Man Held On Manslaughter Charge When Girl Dies And Four Injured

(International News Service)

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio, July 11.—Following the death of Miss Iris Coleman, 16, and the injury of four other persons in an automobile collision on the East Liverpool-Wellsburg highway, County Coroner E. R. Sturgis today had recommended the arrest of Walter Kountz, 30, on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the accident.

To make matters much worse, George isn't just a golfer, either. He's one of the very best. His work in the winter tournaments and the major open meets since have proven that he's as good as any of the rest—and so far he hasn't said a single word about retiring.

Billy Burke's victory in the national open, while gratifying to some extent to the professional golfers, left them with plenty to worry about as far as Von Elm is concerned. George came so close to victory, and his showing was so magnificent throughout the tournament and the exhausting 72-hole playoff, that, except for the actual championship, he gained as much glory as Burke.

During the open tourney Von Elm proved he was then a better golfer than all others save Burke. He was the only player to fracture 70 for a round. Starting with a poor 75, he finished like a whirlwind. Losing by a stroke at the end of 144 holes, he gave full proof that he possesses a great competitive temperament. In other words, as far as golf is concerned, we know today that Mr. Von Elm is a wow!

And the pros know it, too. Hence, the gloom.

Mr. Horton is returning early next week from a honeymoon in the West.

Few have known that Mr. Horton was married on June 30 to Miss Nancy Nolan, whom he met at the University of Minnesota a few years ago. Both were students there at the time. Their meeting culminated into a romance.

The couple were married at the home of the bride in Butte, Montana. Immediately after the ceremony they left on their honeymoon to Glacier National Park.

Upon their arrival here Mr. and Mrs. Horton will make their home at the residence of Mrs. A. F. N. Thomas on Glen avenue for the summer. Mrs. Thomas is away visiting her daughter at Hornell, N. Y.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Week-End Market Dull And Featureless

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, July 11.—Stocks settled down to a lower level of prices in the early trading in the dull and featureless week-end market. The market as a whole was still under the influence of the reactionary moves in Berlin and Paris. The week-end retail business reports were encouraging, but a further drop in prices of Copper and Crude Oil unsettled active stocks in these important groups.

Sharp drops from Friday's closing levels were recorded in a few of the favorites. This resulted from the overnight withdrawals of bids at prices prevailing near Friday's close. Thus Houston Oil started 3 points lower, at 40; American Waterworks down 3 1/2; Union Pacific down 3 1/4 at 163 and Atchison down 2 1/2 at 163.

United States Steel and Bethlehem were again on the downward move. Big Steel fell off in the early trading to 95 1/2 for a loss of 2 1/2, while Bethlehem lost 1 1/2 at 46 1/2.

Wall Street looks for a reduction in the Bethlehem dividend to $2 a share, but directors of the U. S. Steel corporation, at their meeting on July 26, are expected to order the regular quarterly payment at the rate of $7 a year.

Though the active Industrials and Utilities dropped back to slightly lower price levels, there was apparently no effort on the part of the bears to "pound" these shares much below current levels. The president has joined in the war against bearish speculators whose only object is to depress prices for the sake of personal profits and whose action in times like the present is considered detrimental to the best interests of the country. Officials of the New York Stock Exchange have already declared war on bearish "propaganda."

Losses of a point, more or less, were recorded for American and Foreign Power, Columbia Gas, General Motors, General Electric and a few dozen more of the active low-priced favorites, in a market which tapered off in activity as the noon period approached. There was little interest in the narrow swing of prices, outside of the purely professional ranks.

Coppers and Oils stiffened after their early shake-down, Standard of New Jersey holding around 37 1/2, against yesterday's best price of 40 and closing price of 38 1/2.

Wheat, Cotton and Textiles were fairly steady as the short session advanced. Wheat rose fractionally and Cotton fell off a few points.

Trading in the bond market was restricted to a few of the best grade corporation issues, but German New 5's dropped sharply, losing all of yesterday's 3-point closing spurt.

Money was in good supply in all markets.

Narcotics Necessary To Medics

Dr. Clendening Cites Physicians' Need Of Drugs

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

There are estimated to be at least a hundred thousand drug addicts in the United States. Within the last year vigorous efforts have been made to reduce this number to prevent the sale of opium products for other than medical purposes.

The purely scientific and medical aspects of the subject are somewhat different than the sociological aspects. In the first place, the medical profession must use morphine, cocaine, and other narcotics in practice. Any attempt to limit their power in this respect by legislation will meet an opposition entirely different in kind from the opposition they exhibited to the restriction of their privileges in prescribing alcoholic medicines. In the case of alcohol very few of them needed it in practice; in the case of narcotics no one can get along without them and the amount given must be left to the physician's discretion.

So emphatic is this that the official organ of the organized medical profession has been stifling the backbone of its members by printing a series of articles called, "The Inadmissible Uses of Narcotics."

The charge is often made that the medical profession is responsible for most cases of drug addiction because the first dose of the drug most addicts took was administered by a doctor. The actual figures of the history of 1,225 addicts showed that only 23 per cent had a drug given for the first time by a doctor. The rest fell under four classes: self-treatment for relief of pain (17 per cent) and self-treatment during emotional distress, the influence of other addicts in and out of prison, and indulgence for the sake of curiosity, thrill or bravado.

To normal minded people the after effects of a single dose of morphine are usually unpleasant. Only to those who are emotionally, unbalanced or have distinctly irritable nervous systems does the dose given for medical purposes appeal to the extent that they want to take more.

MY NEW YORK BY JAMES ASWELL

Central Press.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Summer is the time when New Yorkers visit the rest of the United States and the rest of the United States visits New York. The out-of-town newspaper stand in front of the Times building does a boom business during the dog days.

Half an hour in front of those bulging paper racks in Times Square yields curious and cosmopolitan sights. The gentleman who owns the concessions is a hearty, heavily-set veteran of 30 years in this business—"30 years a newspaperman," as he phrases it himself.

"This is a big business," he reminded me, not without justifiable pride, as a Texan in a ten-gallon hat demanded his home paper—and got it. "It's the biggest of its kind in the world. The back-number department alone gets rid of 30,000 papers a year."

"Now business is pretty good. Lots of visitors. Two thousand summer school girls in town. They come down to see Broadway the first week or so and buy their home papers. Then they seem to get to reading the local papers or something, because they don't come as much."

He is in a good spot to study the human race and he has a twinkle in his eye that indicates he hasn't wasted his opportunities. Having a bawful streak, he didn't want his name mentioned.

He can't understand why people appear to be angry when he doesn't carry particular papers from their towns. "For crying out loud! I can't carry them all," he protested. "How does law increase freedom?"

After the devotional songs Bible reading and prayer, Mrs. Bruce directed a short interesting program as follows:

Reading "How Can I Gain Real Cameron"

Piano solo, "March of the Flower Girl"—Margaret E. Kerr

Reading, "How Does Law Increase Freedom?"—Mrs. J. L. Burton

Piano solo, "Humoresque," Gertrude McKissick

Song, "America"—Union

The president took charge of the meeting. Minutes were read and collection taken. The annual election of officers took place and the following were elected:

President—Mrs. Oliver Cameron

Vice president—Mrs. Jennie Bleevins

Secretary—Mrs. H. J. Miller

Treasurer—Mrs. Joe Shoaff

There were 50 adults and 8 children present.
